

05. Note on Gendered Language and Inclusion

bsduskills.edu.in

We strive to use gender-neutral and inclusive language throughout this website to address all individuals equally. Where gender-specific terms are used for reasons of readability or space, they are intended to include all people – regardless of gender, gender identity, age, origin, culture, religion, disability, social background, or any other personal characteristic. This explicitly includes children, adolescents, and adults alike.
